

Living in Communion with Reverence for Life

You occupy a footprint on our planet.

No one else is in your space but you.

Where you are right now is your space,

And it is yours to tend.

You have the moral obligation to care for that which has been entrusted to you.

There is much around you.

Be aware of it all.

Each has its own space to tend.

Be in communion with your companions, be they organic or inorganic.

Be aware of your communion with Mother Earth and encourage one and all to act with Reverence for Life.

From LOVING MOTHER EARTH: Integrating Environmentalism and Spirituality, by Dr. Andy Atwood.
